on the FIELD

With March approaching we can (almost) declare the winter over while welcoming the new spring. Days get longer, air gets warmer, trees cover themselves with baby leaves and the first flowers gently pop up. This type of climate really invites us to get out and enjoy the open air and, even if many of us are going through another lockdown, it is a good idea to make the most of every occasion to have a walk in Nature. To completely profit of the situation wear something harmonising with surrounding. Brown and beige colour palette, cream white and a touch of orange and yellow, which lights up the spirit. They remind us that wellbeing is made of several elements together: outfits are not to be underestimated, because they change the perception we have of ourselves.
